

Speaking ahead of a recent conference , the IMF identified a leading role for private equity in energy generation (with public sector focusing on transmission network) and telecoms. Private participation would require prospects for making a return, and an enabling environment through sound tax system, governance, and legal framework.