

The UK Independent Commission on Aid Impact (ICAI) released a report analysing the coordination and management of the EU's development spending and focuses on the impact of EU aid in low-income countries through case studies. While the report assesses that many improvements are being made, it highlights concerns over delivery and weaknesses in terms of performance. A Eurodad AidWatch concludes that much remains to be done to implement aid effectiveness commitments by EU donors, one year on from Busan.

Special Report
